Vargas or Subtle Divisions

It is easy to appreciate that any given sign remains on the horizon for an average of two hours, plus or minus a few minutes. This means that all persons born during that time will have a similar planetary disposition in their charts. Also, a given sign rises on the horizon at approximately the same time (with a difference of approx. 4 minutes) on the subsequent day also.

It is possible that the planetary disposition as well as the rising sign may remain unaffected even if two births happen a day apart. In case of twins too, where the rising signs and the planetary positions are likely to be similar, segregation of the natives appear difficult.

One of the brilliant method of overcoming the difficulties mentioned above is the use of Vargas or subtle division. Each sign is divided into specific number of parts. Thus, the lagna or rising sign falls in a specific area of the division.

Rishi Parashra describes sixteen divisions called as the Shodashavargas. These Vargas not only help segregate the apparently similar charts, they also specifically deals with the specific area's of the native life. Thus, the use of Vargas is essential in order to make accurate and specific predictions.

The Sixteen Vargas of Parashara are as follows :

1. Rashi or complete sign of 30deg
2. Hora or one-half of sign (15deg)
3. Drekkana or one-third of a sign (10deg)
4. Chaturthamsha or one-fourth of a sign (7deg30')
5. Saptamansha or one-seventh of a sign (4deg 20')
6. Navamsha or one-ninth of a sign (3deg 20')
7. Dashamsha or one-tenth of a sign (3.00deg)
8. Dwadashamsha or one-twelfth of a sign (2deg 30')
9. Shodashamsha or one-sixteenth of a sign (1deg 52'30")
10. Vimshamsha or one-twentieth of a sign (1deg 30')

11. Chaturvimshamsha or one-twenty-fourth of a sign (1deg 15')
12. Sapta-Vimsha or one-twenty-seventh of a second (1deg 6'40")
13. Trimshamsha or one-thirtieth of a sign (1deg 00")
14. Khavedamsha or one-fortieth of a sign (0deg 45')
15. Aksha-Vedamsha or one-forty-fifth of a sign (0deg 40')
16. Shashtyamsha or one-sixtieth of a sign (0deg 30')
